DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 1-8 are objected to because of the following informalities:

Claim 1-8, line 1: " connection" should be changed to -- connector --.

Claim 1-8, line 3: "spring" should be changed to -- contact spring or spring contact --.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1, 4, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Swearingen et al. (2004/0003398).

Swearingen (Figures 1-56) shows an electrical connector for a shielded cable assembly having a spacer block of non-conductive material 28, 680 with a first bore, a spring contact of conductive material 24, 624 with a fixed portion attached to the block and a resilient portion extending into the first bore and a housing 34, 60 with a cavity retaining the spacer block in the cavity wherein the fixed portion is in pressed contact with an internal surface of the housing and scrapes a layer formed on the internal surface. The shielded cable has a central conductor surrounded by an insulating layer surrounded by a shielding layer surrounded by another insulating layer. The contact spring has a perimeter portion surrounding the spacer block partially.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15 and 16 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Swearingen et al. (2004/0003398).

Swearingen shows all the features of these claims except a collar on the housing, a stem on the spacer block, a conductive coating of tin, gold or an alloy on the spring contact, a cover. An Official Notice is given that such features are well known and widely used in the art of electrical connectors. It would have been obvious to provide these features for their intended use, which are well known and these involve only routine skill in the art.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Swearingen (6482049, 6837759) and McCarthy (5934937).

Art Unit: 2839
